DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Claims 11-23, 27-30 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on Oct. 18, 2004.

Claim Objections

2. Claim 25 is objected to because of the following informalities: claim 25 depends from claim 19. It appears that claim 25 was meant to depend from claim 24 since claim 24 recites an insect control product while claim 19 recites a method of making an insect control product.. For the purposes of this Office Action, claim 25 is assumed to depend from claim 24. Appropriate clarification/correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

5. Claim 7 recites the limitation "the coated middle portion" in lines 2-3. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

6. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

7. Claims 1-3, 6-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Cohen 5,042,194.

The '194 patent to Cohen shows an insert for an insect control product having as shown in Fig. 1 a first side which is the side facing up and an oppositely facing second side which is the side facing down. Cohen shows the first side having a first portion 12, a middle portion 18 and a third portion 22 with the middle portion being connected to the first portion along a fold line 13 and the third portion connected to the middle portion along a fold line 17. Cohen shows an insecticide coating 70 as disclosed in columns 3-4, line 66- line 16. The coated region can be interpreted as the area that the coating will cover or alternately, the area covered by an adhesive which is the back side of panel 12. Cohen shows a Z-shaped insert when folded as shown in Fig. 3.

8. Claims 1 and 24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Monett et al.

The patent to Monett shows an insert 12 for an insect control product having a first side and an oppositely facing second side. Monett shows a first portion 12 as shown in Fig. 2 as the left most part of insert 12, a middle portion as the next to the left , and a third portion. The middle portion is connected to the first portion along a fold line A , A' and the third portion connected to the middle portion along a fold line B, B'. Monett shows a formula 20 applied on a coated region of the first side leaving a noncoated region or portion of the first side. Monett shows the formula applied to a coated region on the second side leaving a noncoated region or portion of the second side. In both cases Monett shows the formula as an adhesive layer 20 between layers 12, 12' which have holes 14 which exposes the adhesive. Monett shows a box or enclosure 40 with an interior surface and an exterior surface defining a plurality of holes 94 for the insects to enter. Monett shows the insert folded into a Z-shaped cross-section such that only noncoated portions of the first side and second sides contact the interior surface of the box.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

9. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

10. Claims 4-5, 9, 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cohen '194.

The patent to Cohen '194 shows an insert for an insect control product as discussed above. In reference to claims 4-5, 9, Cohen shows the coated region covering part of the middle portion and a coated part of the first portion and third portion, but it would have been obvious to cover the entire middle portion to increase the chances of an insect coming into contact with the insecticide coating. In reference to claim 10, Cohen '194 shows the first portion having a first tab 42 and the third portion having second tabs 36, 38. However, it would have been obvious to provide the first portion with more than one tab for multiplied effect. See In re Harza, 124 USPQ 378.

11. Claims 25-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Monett et al.

The patent to Monett shows an insect trap with an insert as discussed above. In reference to claim 25, Monett shows the adhesive coating on the first side covering a coated region or part of the third portion, but it does not cover all of the middle portion, but it would have been obvious to cover all of the middle portion to catch more insects. Also, Monett shows the coated region on the second side covers a coated part of the first portion, but not all of the middle portion. It would have further been obvious to coat all of the middle portion on the second side for the purpose of catching more insects. In reference to claim 26, Monett discloses the coating or formula as an adhesive, but it would have been obvious to employ an old and well known insecticide with the adhesive to kill more insects. The examiner takes Official Notice that insecticides are old and well known in insect traps.
